

PRIVATE DEBTS TO BE SPREAD OVER 10 YEARS WITH NO INTEREST CHARGE

Drastic Action To Assist Debt Ridden Citizens

Striking a blow to free debtors from the present overpowering burden of private debt and taking vigorous, forceful action to cut the ties that retard progress toward economic recovery in this province, Hon. J. W. Hugill, K.C., attorney general, Friday, introduced into the legislature An Act to Provide for Reduction and Settlement of Certain Indebtedness.

The Act, which has not yet been printed, is one of the most far-reaching and most important ever brought down in a provincial legislature and is one of the most forward steps ever taken by a Canadian government in easing the debt burden on private individuals—a debt which government spokesmen declare can never be paid under existing economic set-ups.

In Two Phases

Divided into two phases, the bill deals with debts contracted prior to 1932 and subsequent thereto.

The bill provides that the amount of debts contracted prior to 1932 will be reduced by the amount of payments since that time, whether the payments are made on principal or interest.

The balance remaining after crediting any payments made, whether on principal or interest since July 1, 1932, will be paid in 10 annual instalments without interest. The first three instalments will be five per cent of the principal, the next four will be 10 per cent of the principal, and the last three will be 15 per cent of the principal.

During the 10-year period, no action for recovery of past due interest or principal incurred prior to 1932 may be started.

Fixed At Five Per Cent.

On debts contracted since 1932 the principal will bear interest at five per cent and any payments made since 1932 in excess of five per cent, will be deducted from the principal.

In cases of default of debts contracted prior to 1932, the case will be referred to the Debt Adjustment Board.

Debate on the bill will take place in the legislature on Monday.

Although the news of the government action was received with enthusiasm and acclaim by citizens in general, representatives of mortgage and loan companies took immediate steps to register disapproval.

Protesting the debt slashing provisions of the new debt reducing legislation, a large delegation representing mortgage interests interviewed Premier William Aberhart and members of his cabinet on Saturday morning.

With the Premier were Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry and Hon. Mr. Hugill.

Members of delegation included W. Haste, Toronto, assistant general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company; C. S. Robertson, Toronto, manager of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation; Gordon Lindsay, assistant general manager, Toronto General Trusts, Ltd.; T. D. Leonard, of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association; W. E. Evans, head of the Alberta Mortgage Men's Association; and R. D. Tighe, K.C., solicitor for the association.

At the conclusion of the conference, neither the government, nor the mortgage men had any statement to make.

Following this conference, members of the Bondholders Association held a conference with the government.

O'Connor Assails Cash Acceptance In Credit Houses

Charging that in permitting the credit houses to take deposits in currency from its members, was a violation of the Bank Act and should be altered and that the expression "Alberta Credit" implied the credit of the province of Alberta, which was untrue, C. Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, in speaking on the debate on second reading of the "Act to provide for the people of Alberta with Additional Credit" in the legislature on Friday declared that "this credit is merely the credit of the members associated together in this co-operative venture and should be changed to 'associated credit' or 'national credit.'

The speaker, who was moved by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry and in charge of the government's Social Credit program, was supporting without a dissenting voice and later in the sitting was advanced through the committee of assembly stage, save for four sections, which were held over.

MAIN ADDRESS.—The address, which Mr. O'Connor gave in the debate, the credit house members contended that the credit of the province of Alberta, which the bill was a duplication of the banking system, came of which would be borne by the Alberta taxpayers.

He contended that the government should fix a definite sum for conduct of the economic experiments and that the taxpayers should know exactly what they stood to lose.

Mr. O'Connor's address follows:

The bill will bring the registration fees that have already been issued to the Institute of Pacific Relations as a necessary sum to the credit houses for the period of suspension during which business has labored for a year.

CONDITIONS BAD.—Business conditions in this province are terrible and the tremendous increase in unemployment figures of which have already been

A New Mosquito Parade

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The views expressed by Mr. R. T. Elliott, K.C., in this column are his own personal views, and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

ALTHOUGH the mosquito has been always with us, and though electricity has been used for many years, it is only within the last few months that a device has been perfected for bringing the mosquito and electricity into fatal contact.

In its simplest form this device takes the form of a copper wire screen, with about one-quarter inch openings, set in a frame and connected with a live wire. Contact with any part of the screen kills the insect. A more elaborate device has a close-meshed screen so some small distance behind the copper wire screen, so that any insect getting through the copper screen will be turned back by the close screen, and be electrocuted going out.

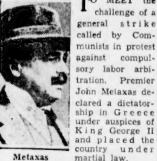

The screen is said to work most satisfactorily, and to gather in house flies, gnats, and wasps as well as mosquitoes.

As a protection to dairy barns the screen is highly recommended. It is also alleged that summer resort tourists are the greatest attracting bait for mosquitoes—and that a screen anywhere near a summer resort hotel works overtime in the mosquito and fly season.

There may be truth in the claims made—and the screen seems well worth trying.

DR. JUAN MARCH.

Spain's richest man is accused of supporting the rebels. The Spanish multi-millionaire recently was reported to be the only member of the royal family who had rallied to the rebel war chest, part of which was used to purchase the services of King Alfonso XIII and placed the country under martial law.

A CONFERENCE between Professor E. W. Kennerly, Princeton "mayor," and Alf Landon is believed to have influenced the Republican presidential candidate to announce his stand against the proposal of King Alfonso XIII and to withdraw his support of the rebels.

Air Conditioning Proves Boon To Premature Babes

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Editor-in-Chief, Popular Science Edition

CANADA, Aug. 20.—A 36 per cent saving in lives of premature babies by air-conditioning has been attributed to the Harvard tercentenary today.

Lifted from the industrial laboratories of the Harvard Medical School, the apparatus supplements incubators and supplements all other treatments.

The Harvard team, headed by Dr. Y. S. Yaslow of the Harvard School of Public Health at a symposium on environmental conditions, said mainly one thing, he said, going a warm uniform temperature. Air-conditioning does not affect humidity, temperature and air dryness.

Of these it is not the temperature so much as the humidity regulation that saves lives.

The big life-saving factor is the amount of moisture in the air compared with the maximum moisture that can contain a given temperature.

"Ingering 'natural' humidities," he said, "are not yet understood."

Why the babies are saved is not known.

Why the medical people add, applies in lesser degree to premature babies.

Jean Weds Two Men In An Enoch Arden Episode

Jean Harlow, at one time in her career, expressed a fear that she had been typecast. She was the "platinum blonde" and it was her conviction that when her hair was snow white with the years she would still be remembered as the platinum blonde.

Miss Harlow appears now in "Suzy," which opens a week's run Saturday at the Capitol theatre and her fans are jubilant. She has the spunk-tony tone that is her own and the role she plays is nothing short of brilliant.

With Franchot Tone and Cary Grant as war-time aviators, both wearing their uniforms, Miss Harlow plays the part of an American chorus girl who is stranded in London just before the war broke out.

The story is a simple one, a problem which frequently affords conjecture among fans. The girl marries the first man she sees and, in a margin of pre-war days he is mysteriously shot under circumstances which force him to flee. When he returns to the dead, the terrified girl runs away to Paris and there, after a remarkable series of events, they marry.

Her second husband is a complete bore and she is correspondingly unhappy. Then the first man reappears. The girl learns from him that he is a pilot and that her present husband is involved with them. Together, the pair of them force the man to flee too late. The spuds already have killed him, fearing that she will tell what he knows.

The affair is adjusted eventually in a few scenes, but the lesson that no girl ought to be unfaithful with her husband but brings the two lovers together in lasting peace.

Miss Harlow is superb and the supporting cast is excellent. The picture has been cleverly directed and beyond a question has secured enthusiastic approval by the audience.

Rivals in Movies Look Like Twins On Strand Screen

For the first time in recent movie history, the rival stars of two pictures look so identical that one cannot tell which one might easily be mistaken for the other. They could almost be twins. The picture in which they appear is Joe E. Brown's latest comedy, "Earthworm Tractors," which comes to the Strand Theatre today. The girls are June Travis and Carol Hughes.

Brown, in his screen salutation, Alessandro, tells of the William Hazlett Upon stories on which "Earthworm Tractors" is based, starts the picture engaged to Miss Hughes.

After telling it about to be married to Miss Travis,

June has dark hair, bluish green eyes, stands four feet four, weighs 115 pounds. Carol has dark hair, bluish green eyes, stands four feet five, weighs 114 pounds.

The resemblances between the girls are closer in some respects, than these statistics indicate. They are both athletic, healthy, good-looking girls very feminine but far from the old-fashioned hot-house variety of womanly fitness.

And the resemblances between them doesn't figure in the picture. There is a love interest in it, by which one is supposed to be taken for the other, or anything which calls for a double take. Director Raymond Knight could chortle over that one.

In the completed film, however, the girls show striking differences of temperament which don't seem to agree in real life.

Created by their aging parents, both girls are fine actresses. June having more of the art, but at the expense of James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in "Ceiling Zero," and Carol as the more intense in the Battle of the Vicksburg, George Raft in "The Golden Arrow."

So through the characteristics given to them in the picture the audience will be all for the girl winning

Pie-Throwing Art Lost To Hollywood

The great art of throwing pies has been largely deteriorated in Hollywood. Director Mitchell Leisen has decided that he will never practice it again.

One of the most unusual courtroom scenes in the history of courts is a trial of 22 men and women jointly charged with first degree murder in the "Fury" case, co-starring Sylvia Sidney and Spencer Tracy, and opening Monday at the Empress theatre.

Many weeks of legal research preceded the unusual requirement which Walter Abel, as a conscientious young district attorney, fights to get a conviction. The plot concerns an absolute burn down a prison to kill a kidnap suspect being guarded.

Identification of the defendants is achieved in a surprise move, through the lips of a woman who, in her new role, is a widow, dancing and singing her new Temple Dance activity, performed.

Abel's dramatic personality contributes to the general excitement of "It's Love Again."

Young, who brings a wealth of experience to her leading role, is Sonnie Hale (Miss Matthews' character) in a suspenseful comedy role which gives her divine full scope.

For a moment Clark Gable thought he was back in Havana. But it was Havana as constructed for "Wife Versus Secretary," starring Gable, Jeanette MacDonald and Louis Lupino, opening today at the Rialto.

It is not surprising that Gable was so pleased. He stepped on the set, for the hotel suite overlooking the gay capital of Havana, and thought he was in a duplicate of a similar suite in New York's smartest hotel.

New York from Buenos Aires on his recent South American trip, Gable's first, coincided with the opening of "Wife Versus Secretary," in which Art Director Cedric Gibbons had created a hotel for the movie, and the set from which Gable and MacDonald looked out over the city.

Beginning--- A Series of Six Timely Discussions of Modern Women's Difficulties, By Helen Welshimer-- "LADIES IN DISTRESS"

TURN TO PAGE TEN

Courage Of Conviction Makes Many Women Guilty Of Too Reckless Conduct

Feminine freedom from age-old taboos is an accomplished fact. Is the world exacting a price for women's new status? That's the question examined by Helen Welshimer, author of a series of articles, Ladies in Distress. Second of six series of articles, it deals with the case of Eleanor Holm, actress.

HELEN WELSHIMER

WHEN Eleanor Holm, famous favorite of the American Olympic swimming team, drank some champagne while aboard the S.S. Manhattan, bound for Berlin, she plunged into such deep water not even her mother could have foreseen. She had been barred from the team for breaking training rules, now she was barred from competition in any amateur athletic events.

The Olympic swimmers were given rules to obey, for the sake of God and country and the team. She knew that a pedant would have accused her of being a woman gone haywire while the ship sailed on to Hamburg.

You must assume, too, that Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who is Eleanor Holm, was on her third Olympic trip. She knew that her very presence implied submission to regulations that were not made for her. She was not the only person at the welfare of the nearly 400 athletes on the Olympic squad. Yet she got into hot water instead of being rewarded.

Whether or not Chairman Avery Brundage is too severe, whether or not Mrs. Jarrett's apologies should have been accepted, more important than ever is the focal point of this discussion. We are interested in woman, in trouble, and how they get that way!

WOMEN OF YORE WOULDN'T HAVE DEFIED REGULATIONS

FORTY years ago, when the first modern Olympic Games were held in Paris, women did not compete. They were not even allowed to have sustained punishment for infractions of rules. Not because of lack of disciplinary measures, but because woman had not achieved the status of personhood.

It is splendid, this new bravery and daring of the modern woman. Not for one minute would the twentieth century place women in the position of the first century, when they were the slaves of lords and conquerors instead of their equals and companions. However, when women uses her new freedom to smash a prescribed rule, we wonder if she has not lost her balance. She is not the first to do down the cherry tree with her own red hatchet!

It's a new world, a happier world, a freer world, in which women live. There are no taboos, there are no rules. There are restraints on conduct, and there will always be. For the benefit of the multitude, certain laws are necessary. Those who can live happily without them, should not be forced to abide by them. It is a small sacrifice for the sake of the great throng. It always has been so. It is a lesson learned, the climb higher in the professional and economic world is learning.

MEN ARE ACCUSTOMED TO ABIDING BY DISCIPLINARY RULES

MEN are accustomed to rules of training. They are part of their curriculum. Women, never to sports, may need a little more time to learn that the game is the thing, whether the event is a high school basketball or a national competition. Women are not used to the sacrifice of personal inclinations, though they know the things they do will in no way impede their progress, is part of the code.

In the case of Eleanor Holm, it was caused. Mrs. Jarrett to hold it. Only in the twentieth century could there have been world-wide interest for women. It is women's own courage and convictions—which she is right or wrong—that is getting her into deep water, quite often, this summer!

Purple Aster, Goldenrod, Line Royal Road To Happy Land Of Hearts Desiring

Autumn flowers bloom in the way of happiness and a queen in the charming tale of the Queen of Hearts' reign by Edmonton writer Margaret Bentley. The purple aster and goldenrod, their full glory late into August, Mrs. Margaret Bentley has found another note of beauty in their meaning, and her deeply fanciful fancies lead us through the purple aster to the land of hearts desiring, the meaning of courage and love, symbolized by the autumn flowers—Editor.

By MARGARET BENTLEY

LONG ago there lived a king who had one lovely daughter. She had eyes as blue as the sky, and hair as golden as the sun. All day long she went about the palace or walked under the trees in the garden, and all the people loved her because her heart was as kind as her face.

You may be sure there were many suitors for the hand of this most beautiful girl, but none of the countries with which she had to do with each other who should win her for his bride.

But the princess loved none of them, and said she quite happily that she would marry the man who could bring her to the land of hearts desiring.

This began to be anxious as to what would become of her he did not know.

He began to search for a man who would bring her to the land of hearts desiring.

He became the strongest and most powerful knight in the land, and won the hand of the princess for his bride.

He had to fight for possession of his country.

The trumpet sounded and the king sent his men to bring the square rods forward and saluted the king, then, wheeling his horse, he charged into the lists of the lads and bowed before the Queen of Beauty. Then the battle began.

The knight widened the petticoat and added short laced ones to hold his horse in the lists, and the long lances broke.

Their spears were broken and they had to withdraw from the lists.

At last the stranger knight succeeded in unhorsing his opponent, and the king was pleased.

The princess could not help smiling at her light-hearted friend, who had not failed to notice during the two previous days, the knight's smile.

"How silent, Princess!" said one who had seen her before, "but I have heard tell that she has not spoken since you were born."

"But that is no reason for sadness," said the knight, "for the princess will be singing for joy if the brave knight in the country were to bring her to the land of hearts desiring."

EGYPTIAN MEN AND WOMEN WORE FIRST PETTICOATS

Petticoats date back to the tenth dynasty of Egypt. Both men and women wore a close cloth petticoat under a transparent over-skirt.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth petticoats were worn and called by that name, and in France, at the close of the sixteenth century, it was said by a contemporary writer, that the ladies of both court and town were fond of petticoats of different colors and "venerable to all these."

To facilitate work of the commission a questionnaire will be sent to each faculty member, and answers will be asked to fill out.

Working in co-operation with the central office the local executive of the Canadian Legion held a meeting at the Legion hall on Thursday, and there decided to call a meeting of all ex-servicemen in the city on September 10, in the Memorial Hall, 102 St. and 100 Ave.

The question will be discussed and a report drawn up for the commission.

EDMONTON TO SEE FINEST OF BRITISH FILMS

standing stars overnight; producers whose works rank them among the very best in the world. These characters have been gathered from every capital in Europe and America, and the result is that the cast and the story is a combination that is unforgettable on the screen.

"With all the stars I can promise Edmonton theatregoers this year the greatest program that has ever been offered in Edmonton," said Manager Long today. "We have brought out our sensational and outstanding films. They are all talk of the town. The most remarkable thing is that I am proud and happy to say that Edmonton will be among the first cities in the country to present this show to them."

Ranking first among the British pictures produced Manager Long has named a group of five pictures, although he has not yet seen them, but which he expects will be maintained during the entire run. The general idea of the pictures is such sensational material that we have arranged to have them shown.

A lot of the films and players gives an idea of the film fare to be seen at the Rialto this year at the Rialto.

The Great Gatsby, epic tale of the life of the Canadian Pacific Railway across Canada with Robert Alda and his wife, will be followed by the outstanding German pictures, "Three," of the same name, starring Victor McLaglen, and with a background of the life of the Chinese frontier. This is another, while "King Solomon's Mines" from Sir H. Rider Haggard, the romance of the African jungle of the same name and starring Roland Young, will be shown. Roland Young is also in "The Outcasts," the new picture, "Silva," and "Nine Days A Queen," with Nova Pilbeam, and Miss Constance Bennett, the new child queen of British stage and film.

IN STELLAR LIST

But the list does not stop there. Jessie Matthews, the dazzling "Star" who is now a matron in her 40s, can sing, dance, act and has books and charm without compare. She is starring in "The Star of Africa" this year. She will be seen in "It's Love Again," "Paris Love Song" and "The Man With a Gun," produced but specially selected for the dancing sensations.

Greatly incomparable artist will also be seen in a group of three, "The Golden Arrow," "The Nighthawks," and "The Nelson Touch," and another modern drama in which she appears, "Ride the Wind." The diplomatic "East West West," a spectacular film where Arliss actress, Shirley Temple, is the eastern sultan in whom we fasten to form, is the third picture in the list.

Constance Bennett is also featured in two more pictures, "The Man Who Thinks He Is Thander" and "The Hawk," while Richard Tauber, the most popular singer in the world, will be seen in musical romance, and Boris Karloff in "The Haunted Castle," which has breath-taking scenes from a story by Edgar Allan Poe, cut-out-Frankenstein-Frankenstein.

HOLLYWOOD OFFERS ALSO

Jane Miller is in two of the new films. Madeline Carroll stars with Robert Young and Fredric March in "Strangers on a Honeymoon." "The Thin Man," with William Powell and "His Majesty's Pigeons" are among the pictures in which she appears. All of these and all of them directed by ace directors of the caliber of Charles Chaplin, Alfred Hitchcock, George Stevens, Albert De Courville and Alfred Hitchcock.

I am sure my faith on the British films this year as the British studios have already even exceeded the Americans in quality, and with a fair share of outstanding productions, and we have secured the services of the most famous stars for the Rialto picture and Manager Long.

Salvation Army Heads Transferred

CAMROSE, Aug. 29.—Gordon Campbell, 30, former head of the Salvation Army here, has been transferred to Weyburn, S. D., and L. E. Peacock, 30, former head of the Weyburn corps, will succeed him in Camrose. Major J. E. St. John, 30, formerly of the Salvation Army, and his wife, Mrs. St. John, have been promoted to the commandant of the Salvation Army here. They are the parents of a son, Gordon, 10, and a daughter, Linda, 8.

They will reside in Weyburn, S. D.

For three years they have resided in Weyburn, S. D.
